

Food For Free ~ Brandon Hill Bristol
Map Launch party - Saturday the 22nd May 12pm - 4.30 pm

ALL INVITED AND FREE TO ALL

Find us by the ponds on the path which leads to Cabot Tower.

This day is to celebrate the installation of The Food For Free map of Brandon Hill. There will be an unveiling ceremony, followed by opportunities to make brass rubbings of the map and to partake in the party.

Bring yourself and friends

Come dressed as animals and plants, woodland or urban.

Bring special picnics that relate to your costume.

(For example if you come as a nettle, bring nettle soup, if you come as a squirrel bring the nuts etc)

Foraging

Andy Hamilton co-author of the Self-Sufficient-ish Bible will lead a walk/talk tour, identifying some of the edible plants growing within the park.

Live music

Juan Gabriel

The Dagger Brothers

and

Jen Steiner

Order of the Black Tulip

Will hold a Tambourelli Championship.

Food For Free map ~ Brandon Hill by Kayle Brandon & Heath Bunting.
Commissioned by Arnolfini as part of its 'Craftivism' exhibition (2009) with support from Arts Council England.

Re-located to Brandon Hill Park with support from Bristol City Council.

Produced by Galsworthy Graphics.

For more info see: duo. irrational.org/food_for_free